Happy Thursday!

Let me apologize for not getting a news letter out last week. I am finally over my cold and and officially have my voice back. I have never lost my voice before, and now I appreciate it even more. It is amazing the things we take for granted.

ITBS Testing...

The students did an amazing job on the ITBS test. They were such troopers. The plan is to have the results back by conferences.

Conferences...

Speaking of conferences, included in your Thursday Notes is your date and time for your child's conference. Please send back the bottom portion of the note.

May Crowning...

Next Friday (May 7th) the school will celebrate its annual May Crowning (crowning of Mary). The Second Graders will be recognized at this Mass (9:00) for having just received their 1st Communion. The students will wear their 1st Communion outfit to school. I will take attendance and lunch count and we will go up to the church to take group pictures. The 2nd Graders will process in for Mass and also be part of the crowning of Mary. After Mass is the annual May Pole dance performed by the 3rd Graders. Please join us for this special event. Also, please send your child's uniform with them so they can change into it after Mass.

Subjects...

This week is a review for spelling words. Tomorrow the students will also be taking theme five Language Arts test. Starting next week the stories will talk about family memories.

In Math we are continuing talking about fractions. Soon the topic will switch to probability.

Our focus during God's Time is still on the Eucharist.

During Science we are still discussing Air and Weather. This would be a great topic to discuss at home.

If you have not come in to see the heritage posters that everyone has done, you should stop in and see them. I am very amazed at all the heritage that we have in our classroom.

Upcoming Events...

Friday 7th: 9:00 – May Crowning
