Happy Thursday!

I can't believe that I am writing my last Thursday Notes letter of the school year. From day one of this school year I told my class and many others that I was not going to let this class go onto Third Grade. This is truly an awesome class. I love every class that I have had for the past 11 years, but this class just has something extra special about them. I have been very blessed to be able to teach such a wonderful class!

Artists and Authors Fair...

Thank you to those parents who were able to come and celebrate the wonderful works of your children. If you weren't able to join us, hopefully you were able to enjoy all that they had accomplished this school year.

Yearbooks...

Yearbooks were passed out today. If you ordered one, your child should have received it. If you have any questions regarding yearbooks please address them to Mrs. Rafferty.

Summer Reading...

Just incase you missed it last week, Mrs. Evans has included another copy of the directions for summer reading. Your child is required to read at least 3 chapter books. Recorded these books on the back of the sheet. If you loose it during the summer, the form will also be on the website. The forms are due Thursday, September 9.
